

CMF announces Financial Market Development Schedule with five priorities, opens call for proposals

The Commission's priority topics for this Schedule are corporate governance; negotiation platforms and market infrastructures; depth of the capital market; financing for smaller enterprises; and promotion of savings.

December 17, 2024 – The Financial Market Commission (CMF) presented today its Financial Market Development Schedule and opened a call to present proposals. As market development is one of the Commission's three institutional mandates (the others are market conduct and prudential), it aims to improve efficiency, accessibility, depth and resilience of the financial system. This, in turn, promotes sustainable and inclusive economic growth.

The Schedule laid out by the CMF plans to carry out workshops on five priorities: corporate governance; negotiation platforms and market infrastructures; depth of the capital market; financing for smaller enterprises; and promotion of savings. Accordingly, it opened a call to submit ideas and proposals regarding said priorities, or any other deemed relevant to promote development of the financial market, until March 21, 2025.

Results from these workshops will contribute towards the release of a Policy Document on Modernization of the Capital Markets.

Interested parties can send their proposals via email to desarrollofinanciero at cmfchile dot cl. The attached document cannot exceed five pages (without counting annexes) in length.
